

2010 Intern

Mr. Anas Kaziha (Facilities Development)

Anas Kaziha is a Senior at San Diego State University (SDSU) pursuing a degree in Civil Engineering; he is a first generation college student. He is currently a member of the ASCE (American Society of Civil Engineering) at SDSU. Anas has been interested in airports ever since he visited both Dubai and Chicago O'Hare. He was excited when he received an internship at the Airport Authority because he can finally see how airports always stay in order.

Anas was born in San Diego but is originally from Damascus Syria. Anas has always been active in sports. His middle school soccer team won championships three years in a row. In high school, Anas played football his freshmen and sophomore years, and was also an accomplished forward in club water polo. His favorite recreational activities involve the beach: surfing, body surfing, and snorkeling.
