Review of the Unaudited Financial Statements For the Nine Months Ended March 31, 2025 and 2024

Presented by:
Elizabeth Stewart
Director, Accounting

Finance Committee Meeting
April 21, 2025

Economic Update

Market Commentary

Recent economic data suggest slower growth in 2025 and greater market uncertainty as the effects of fiscal policy unfold. Inflationary trends have subsided, but some components remain sticky, and core levels remain above the Fed's target. The labor market reflects improved balance between supply and demand for workers. While job creation has been robust, continuing jobless claims remain elevated. Given the economic outlook, we expect gradual normalization of monetary policy and a steepening yield curve.

As broadly anticipated, the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) left the Federal Funds Rate unchanged at the range of 4.25 - 4.50% at the March meeting. Fed Chair Powell emphasized increased uncertainty around the economic outlook and the need for "greater clarity" before making changes to interest rate policy. He also acknowledged possible transitory inflationary impacts from tariffs. The summary of economic projections (SEP) indicated lower GDP growth, higher inflation, and higher unemployment estimates than December projections, along with roughly two 25-basis point rate cuts this year. The FOMC also announced a slowdown in the pace of balance sheet reduction.

Fourth Quarter GDP

According to the third estimate, fourth quarter GDP increased at an annualized rate of 2.4 percent, revised up 0.1 percentage point from the second estimate. Growth continues to be powered by consumer spending and government spending, partly offset by a decrease in investment. Imports also decreased. Real GDP increased 2.8 percent in 2024. The consensus projection calls for 1.2% growth for the first quarter and 2.0% for the full year 2025.

U.S. Gross Domestic Product (QoQ)
Fourth Quarter 2018 – Fourth Quarter 2024

Initial Claims For Unemployment

In the most recent week, the number of initial jobless claims eased to 221,000 versus 242,000 the prior week. Initial jobless claims of under 250,000 are indicative of a strong labor market. The level of continuing unemployment claims (where the data is lagged by one week) increased to 1.897 million versus 1.855 million the prior week.

Consumer Price Index

In February, both the Consumer Price Index (CPI) and Core CPI, which excludes volatile food and energy components, posted more moderate increases than last month and came in lower than consensus expectations. The headline CPI rose 0.2% month-over-month and 2.8% year-over-year, while the Core CPI rose 0.2% month-over-month and 3.1% year-over-year. The Personal Consumption Expenditures (PCE) price index increased by 0.3% from the previous month and 2.5% year-over-year in February. The Core PCE deflator, which excludes food and energy and is the Fed's preferred gauge, accelerated its increase to 0.4% month-over-month and 2.8% from 2.6% year-over-year. Inflation remains above the Fed's 2% target.

Personal Income and Spending

Personal income and personal spending rose 0.8% and 0.4% respectively in February as consumers continued to boost savings rates from very low levels. The personal savings rate improved to 4.6% in February as earnings outpaced spending. Demand for goods and services was likely tempered by concerns over inflation and the economic outlook. Real personal spending edged higher by 0.1% in February versus a 0.6% pullback in January.

Consumer Confidence Index

The Conference Board's Consumer Confidence Index tumbled 7.2 points in March to 92.9, a notable decrease from February. Consumers' assessment of the present situation fell, with business conditions viewed as "good" by only 17.7% and jobs considered "plentiful" by 33.6%. Their expectations for income, business, and labor market conditions dropped, with pessimism about future employment prospects falling to a 12-year low. While the consumer has been resilient, rising inflation expectations, concerns about trade policies and tariffs, and general economic and policy uncertainty could pose potential risks to future spending.

Existing Home Sales

Existing home sales rebounded 4.2% month-over-month to a seasonally adjusted annualized rate of 4.26 million units in February following a slowdown in January due to winter storms. Sales were especially strong in the West and South as people displaced by the hurricanes and wildfires purchased homes. The average rate on a 30-year fixed mortgage was approximately 6.6% as of early April, according to Freddie Mac. Sales of existing homes were down 1.2% on a year-over-year basis. Although inventory levels are up by 17% year-over-year, affordability continues to weigh on the housing market.

New Home Sales

New home sales were up 1.8% in January to an annualized rate of 676,000 units after dropping by an upwardly revised -6.9% in January. On a year-over-year basis, new home sales were down 5.1%. Builders continued to offer incentives to prospective home buyers as supply increased to 500,000 units, the highest number since late 2007, while the median new home sales price fell to $414,500.

Crude Oil Prices

U.S. West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude settled at $60.70 per barrel on April 7, below its one-month average of $67.61 and its one-year average of $71.09. Prices have declined from recent highs following OPEC+'s decision to increase production starting in April 2025, while growing economic uncertainty and new U.S. tariffs have raised concerns about slower global demand, putting additional downward pressure on oil markets.

Jet Fuel Prices

As of April 4, 2025, the closed at $1.97 per gallon, which is below both the one-month average of $2.10 and the one-year average of $2.23. This decline aligns with the downward trend in crude oil prices, reflecting softer global demand expectations. The recent imposition of U.S. tariffs has added to global economic uncertainty, fueling concerns over slower growth and contributing to the pullback in energy markets.

U.S. Equity Markets

U.S. equity markets moved sharply lower in early April, pressured by new tariffs and signs of slowing economic growth. The S&P 500 has fallen 14% year-to-date, the DJIA 11%, and the NASDAQ 19%. Rising recession fears, escalating trade tensions, and cautious investor sentiment have all contributed to the recent market weakness

Treasury Yield History

At its March 19 meeting, the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) held interest rates steady, as widely expected. In the weeks since, market pricing has shifted to reflect expectations for up to four quarter-point rate cuts in 2025, amid growing concerns about slowing growth and rising policy uncertainty. U.S. Treasury yields have responded, moving lower through early April as softer economic data and newly imposed tariffs added to investor caution. As of April 7, the 2-year yield had declined approximately 45 basis points year-to-date to 3.79%, the 5-year was down 46 basis points to 3.92%, and the 10-year had fallen 34 basis points to 4.23%.

2- and 5-year U.S. Treasury Yields April 07, 2024 – April 07, 2025

Source: Bloomberg

Treasury Yield History

As of April 7, 2025, the spread between the 2-year and 10-year U.S. Treasury yields has widened to +43 basis points, continuing a steady move away from the inversion that defined much of the prior year. In contrast, the curve was inverted by -37 basis points at the same time last year—well below the long-term average of +101 basis points since 2005. The steepening has been driven largely by a sharp decline in short-term yields, as markets anticipate multiple Federal Reserve rate cuts amid growing concerns about slowing economic growth. These concerns have been amplified by the early April rollout of new U.S. tariffs, which have heightened policy uncertainty and added further pressure to the outlook.

U.S. Treasury Yield Curve

Short term yields are lower and longer term yields are higher on a year-over-year basis. The 3-month T-bill yield is down 110 basis points, the 2-Year Treasury yield is down 99 basis points, and the 10-Year Treasury yield is up 22 basis points since one year ago.

- April 2 Tariff Announcement: The United States implemented a 10% universal tariff on all imports, with higher rates applied to certain countries, including a combined 54% tariff on Chinese goods. The policy with the stated goal of supporting domestic industry and strengthening the United States' negotiating position
- Market Reactions Through April 8: Equity markets experienced elevated volatility following the April 2 tariff announcement. From April 2 to April 8, the S&P 500 fell over 12%, the Nasdaq Composite retreated over 13%, and the Dow Jones Industrial Average slipped about 11%. Intraday swings were sharp, including a brief 10% surge in the Nasdaq on April 7 tied to unconfirmed policy headlines. The 10-year U.S. Treasury yield rose from 4.13% to 4.29% during the same period, reflecting investor concerns around inflation and increased issuance.
- Near-Term Market Stabilization After April 8: On April 9, following the administration's announcement of a 90-day pause on most new tariffs (excluding China), equity markets rebounded sharply. The S&P 500 rose 10%, the Nasdaq Composite jumped 12%, and the Dow Jones Industrial Average gained 8%. The rally helped offset prior losses, bringing year-to-date performance as of April 9 to a 7% decline for the S&P 500 and an 11% decline for the Nasdaq.
- Looking Ahead: Markets remain sensitive to further policy developments, particularly around trade negotiations with China and potential central bank responses. Upcoming economic data and corporate earnings may also influence the durability of the recent rebound.

- We are positioning the portfolio to take advantage of a steepening yield curve, with a modestly longer duration than the benchmark in anticipation of Fed rate cuts later this year.
- We are focusing on high-quality corporate bonds, where we see solid fundamentals and attractive risk-adjusted returns.
- Within the yield curve, we are favoring intermediate maturities 3-5 year to balance reinvestment flexibility with total return potential.
- We are committed to preserving liquidity and managing risk, ensuring the portfolio stays aligned with long-term objectives in a shifting market environment.

Fixed Income investments are subject to interest, credit and market risk. Interest rate risk: the value of fixed income investments will decline as interest rates rise. Credit risk: the possibility that the borrower may not be able to repay interest and principal. Low rated bonds generally have to pay higher interest rates to attract investors willing to take on greater risk. Market risk: the bond market in general could decline due to economic conditions, especially during periods of rising interest rates.

U.S. Treasury Yield Curve

Treasury yields have shifted over the past year, reflecting changing expectations around Fed policy and inflation. As of March 31, 2025, short-term rates have declined while long-term rates have held steady. The 3-month T-bill yield is down 107 basis points year-over-year, the 2-year Treasury yield has fallen 74 basis points, and the 10-year yield remains unchanged at 4.20%. These movements suggest markets are pricing in potential Fed rate cuts in response to softer economic data and uncertainty stemming from new U.S. tariffs.

Information contained herein is confidential. Prices are provided by IDC, an independent pricing source. In the event IDC does not provide a price or if the price provided is not reflective of fair market value, Chandler will obtain pricing from an alternative approved third party pricing source in accordance with our written valuation policy and procedures. Performance results are presented gross-of-advisory fees and represent the client's Total Return. The deduction of advisory fees lowers performance results. These results include the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings. Past performance may not be indicative of future results. Therefore, clients should not assume that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable or equal to past performance levels. All investment strategies have the potential for profit or loss. Economic factors, market conditions or changes in investment strategies, contributions or withdrawals may materially alter the performance and results of your portfolio.

Index returns assume reinvestment of all distributions. Historical performance results for investment indexes generally do not reflect the deduction of transaction and/or custodial charges or the deduction of an investment management fee, the incurrence of which would have the effect of decreasing historical performance results. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Fixed income investments are subject to interest, credit and market risk. Interest rate risk: the value of fixed income investments will decline as interest rates rise. Credit risk: the possibility that the borrower may not be able to repay interest and principal. Low rated bonds generally have to pay higher interest rates to attract investors willing to take on greater risk. Market risk: the bond market in general could decline due to economic conditions, especially during periods of rising interest rates.

Ratings information have been provided by Moody's, S&P and Fitch through data feeds we believe to be reliable as of the date of this statement, however we cannot guarantee its accuracy.

Security level ratings for U.S. Agency issued mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") reflect the issuer rating because the securities themselves are not rated. The issuing U.S. Agency guarantees the full and timely payment of both principal and interest and carries a AA+/Aaa/AAA by S&P, Moody's and Fitch respectively.
